Italy at the 38th Edition of the Winter Fancy Food Show
San Francisco, January 20-22, 2013

The Italian Trade Commission wishes you a happy and healthy New Year and invites you to visit the Italian Pavilion at the International Winter Fancy Food & Confection Show, January 20-22 at San Francisco's Moscone Center.

The Italian Pavilion will be again the largest and the most versatile collection of foods, wines and spirits from many Italian regions. Close to fifty Italian exhibitors will show their goods over 5,500 square feet.

Wine, preserved vegetables, artisanal pasta and sweets, cured meats, chocolate, olives, cheeses and olive oil will be available for tasting and commercial contracting. Authenticity, quality, craftsmanship, creativity and cost-effectiveness will be, as always, mainstay themes of the Italian group.

Organic, natural, gluten-free and biodynamic products will also be also shown, reminding visitors that Italy remains the premier producer of organic foods in Europe and one of the major food and wine providers to the United States.

Please visit www.ItalianMade.com for a complete list of the Italian exhibitors.

Representatives of the Italian Trade Commission will be available to provide further information and answer questions at booth 3747.
